

Understanding Your Personal

KUA NUMBER

in feng shui

A 4-page Report Covering Your Auspicious Directions, Numbers,
Colors and Tips to Make the Most of Your Personal Feng Shui

by Kathryn Weber

Your Kua Number

Element: Small Wood

Color: Green

Group: East

Trigram: Sun

How to Tap Your Auspicious Directions

- Try to sleep, eat, work, or be in this sector of your home
- Do as many activities as possible in this sector
- Face this direction when working, eating, or sitting in your living room
- Sleep with the top of your head pointed in this direction
- Enter your home or office from a door that faces these direction

Your Wealth & Success Direction: North

Enhance this direction with 6-rod windchimes, water elements, such as ponds, fountains, or aquariums, and symbols such as turtles or fish. Decorate with shades of blue, black accents, or purple. If you front door is located here, your wealth will last generations.

Images of water are perfect for promoting greater recognition and success. Do everything you can to use this direction to promote your wealth and success! Hang water images on the wealth and success wall of your home or office.

Your Health Direction: South

This direction is benefitted by the addition of plants, candles, red, green, and brown colors. Sleep in this sector to create good luck in health and for more help from others. Activate this area with beautiful flowers and bright lights. A front door located here will also bring lasting prosperity to your family.

Your Love Direction: East

The east direction helps with all aspects related to love and all relationships. If you have difficult relationships, try to sleep with your head pointed in this direction. If romance is a problem, add romantic symbols such as the double happiness or pairs of duck figures.

Add plants to boost family relationships. Water features are particularly good for relationship luck. Green, brown, purple, black, and blue colors are especially beneficial in the east sector.

Your Growth Direction: Southeast

In personal feng shui, the southeast is your growth and wisdom direction. Work in this location to improve your standing, study in this direction, and locate beneficial activities here, such as dining to improve all areas of life.

Add small plants in this sector for excellent chi. Are you trying to start over after a major setback of some kind? If so, this is direction to face or be in, as it will help you get back on your feet again.

Your Unlucky Directions: Northwest, West, Southwest, Northeast

Try to avoid the northwest sector and/or direction. To do so can cause arguments and legal problems. A pair of fu dogs can help remedy this if you must stay in this sector.

The west and southwest can cause accidents, misfortune, and difficulties, such as lawsuits, burglary or fire. Avoid the northeast because it can cause it is the VERY worst direction for you. A front door facing this direction can lead to a loss of children or other close family members. Infertility can also arise, causing the family name to die out. Wealth will also be lost.

These directions are the best locations for kitchens or bathrooms as their negative effects are suppressed by the energy of the toilet and kitchen.

Strenuously avoid the northeast because it is the VERY worst direction for you. A front door facing this direction can lead to a loss of children or other close family members. Infertility can also arise, causing the family name to die out. Wealth will also be lost. This is a good location for a kitchen or a toilet.

Kua Number FAQ'S

How do I incorporate my kua number without worrying that something terrible will happen if my bedroom is in my worst direction or the house doesn't face my auspicious directions?

This is something that many people worry about, but please don't stress too much. Although you have both auspicious and inauspicious directions and their descriptions can be worrisome, it doesn't mean you're doomed, so put your mind at ease!

Everyone needs to have all directions in their homes, so each direction has its role in your life and your home. You just want to bear in mind which directions are more favorable for you.

On the first page, there are suggestions about how to use your kua number to "Tap Your Auspicious Directions." Try to follow these recommendations as best you can to get the most beneficial energy for your life, but don't over stress about the inauspicious directions.

Whose kua number is more important – mine or my partner/spouse?

This is a question that gets asked a lot. The answer is decidedly old fashioned. Basically, you should always try to favor the breadwinner's directions. However, that doesn't mean you don't matter – far from it. If the breadwinner is a woman, then her directions will take precedence. If it's a man, then use his.

I'm confused about what I should follow — my personal feng shui or my personal zodiac sign. Can you help me?

This is a typical question that comes in my email inbox and I thought it would be helpful to share my answer with everyone. In my own personal feng shui, I'm a 4 kua (east person) and I am a Water Tiger.

Now, as a water tiger with a 4 kua, I'm very compatible with both my zodiac sign, element and kua number.

But if you're a kua 5 metal rat, then for example, you have very different qualities associated with your kua number and your zodiac sign and that could be at odds with each other.

This can create quite a bit of confusion for a lot of people, so you're not alone. What I find is that most people identify with an element or identity more than another. So, if you identify with the earthiness of being a 5 kua than the watery element of the rat or the metal element with your birth year, then work with your kua 5 qualities.

Here's what's important to know, though, and that is no matter what you pick, you're right! So just pick the one that feels the most right to you.

I want to turn my bed to my most auspicious direction, but that puts the door to my bedroom behind me. Is that OK?

It's tempting to try to always face our favorable directions, but it's not good feng shui to do that and not use the command position – which is where you can be in bed and see the door from your bed. This is called following good “form” feng shui. Always have your bed or desk arranged so that you are in the command position ahead of trying to tap your personal feng shui directions. This is always the better choice.

What else can you tell me about my personal kua number?

Below are some more details about your kua number, and an image that also might be helpful to understanding your personal feng shui qualities and personality.

I hope it helps you to understand your personal feng shui energies better and to find an affinity for those energies that makes sense – and good feng shui – for you.

4 Kua – The Green Leaf.

The 4 kua is associated with the tender shoot of creativity. Like the plant peeking through the winter snow, 4 kua is the epitome of hope.

Think of an image of a small green leaf poking through the snow in winter. As a 4 kua person you are very creative and has a well of strength to draw from. As a small wood element, water is extremely important to you.

Look to water elements and colors (blue, black, purple) to keep your energy strong. The southeast is your personal growth direction and brings you good fortune. Keep plants and flowers around you to keep you inspired and keep your home light and open.

Colors that make good fashion choices include black, blues, brown, red, pink, purple, and of course, green. The 4 and 1 are considered your lucky numbers, with the 4 being your luckiest after the number of the day you were born.

Focus on wearing blue and green gemstones, or multi-colored stones for fabulous luck.

Jade, diopside, emeralds and blue stones like topaz and aquamarines all bring you beneficial energy. Make sure you keep a water fountain in your home for wealth as your luck is enhanced by the presence of water.