

Understanding Your Personal

KUA NUMBER

in feng shui

A 4-page Report Covering Your Auspicious Directions, Numbers,
Colors and Tips to Make the Most of Your Personal Feng Shui

by Kathryn Weber

Your Kua Number

Element: Big Wood

Color: Brown

Group: East

Trigram: Chen

How to Tap Your Auspicious Directions

- Try to sleep, eat, work, or be in this sector of your home
- Do as many activities as possible in this sector
- Face this direction when working, eating, or sitting in your living room
- Sleep with the top of your head pointed in this direction
- Enter your home or office from a door that faces these direction

Your Wealth & Success Direction: South

Enhance this direction with lights, candles, or lamps. Add objects in groups of nine, such as nine candles or nine outdoor lights. Red colors are also extremely beneficial. This direction helps boost your prominence and stature, so do be sure to face this direction as much as possible -- particularly at work. Because fire is such an important element, look for ways to add plenty of lighting where you live and work. Images of the sun, such as sunrises and sunsets are also especially auspicious as are figures of the sun or starburst mirrors.

Decorate in colors of red, orange, pink, green, brown or purple. Fame comes to you if your front door faces this direction. Do everything you can to use this direction to promote your wealth and success! News clippings, awards and certificates are perfect for placing on the wealth and success wall of your home or office.

Your Health Direction: North

A front door facing this direction will increase your prosperity and bring you wealth! Facing north will also help improve your health. Try facing north while dining to doubly improve your health. Boost the north with black, blue, or purple colors, double fish symbols and/or an aquarium in the north corner of your home, office or living room will give your health an extra shot in the arm.

Your Love Direction: Southeast

Enhance this direction with the colors of light green, blues, blacks, or purples. Add symbols such as green or wooden dragons, snakes, fish, or toads. Small plants are excellent in this direction as are flowers -- particularly those that bloom in water, such as lilies or lotus. Water is also excellent in this location for you, so consider having a fountain or aquarium here.

Your Growth Direction: East

In personal feng shui, the east is your growth and wisdom direction. Work in this location to improve your standing, study in this direction, and locate beneficial activities here, such as dining to improve all areas of life. Are you trying to start over from any kind of setback? If so, this is direction to face or be in. Add beautiful plants here -- such as bamboo -- to get your growing again! Lights are also excellent enhancers for plants, so consider draping white lights on your plants for an extra dose of good feng shui.

Your Unlucky Directions: Southwest, Northwest, Northeast, West

Try to avoid the southwest sector and/or direction. To do so can cause arguments and legal problems or some kind of accident. You will receive blame for problems if you occupy this sector too much.

The northwest and northeast can cause accidents, misfortune, and difficulties, such as lawsuits, burglary or fire. If your front door faces this direction, your family may leave you. If you have a business with a front door facing this direction, employees may leave. This is a good location for a kitchen or toilet.

Strenuously avoid the west because it is the VERY worst direction for you. A front door facing this direction can lead to a loss of children or other close family members. Infertility can also arise, causing the family name to die out. Wealth will also be lost. This is a good location for a kitchen or a toilet..

Kua Number FAQ'S

How do I incorporate my kua number without worrying that something terrible will happen if my bedroom is in my worst direction or the house doesn't face my auspicious directions?

This is something that many people worry about, but please don't stress too much. Although you have both auspicious and inauspicious directions and their descriptions can be worrisome, it doesn't mean you're doomed, so put your mind at ease!

Everyone needs to have all directions in their homes, so each direction has its role in your life and your home. You just want to bear in mind which directions are more favorable for you.

On the first page, there are suggestions about how to use your kua number to "Tap Your Auspicious Directions." Try to follow these recommendations as best you can to get the most beneficial energy for your life, but don't over stress about the inauspicious directions.

Whose kua number is more important – mine or my partner/spouse?

This is a question that gets asked a lot. The answer is decidedly old fashioned. Basically, you should always try to favor the breadwinner's directions. However, that doesn't mean you don't matter – far from it. If the breadwinner is a woman, then her directions will take precedence. If it's a man, then use his.

I'm confused about what I should follow – my personal feng shui or my personal zodiac sign. Can you help me?

This is a typical question that comes in my email inbox and I thought it would be helpful to share my answer with everyone. In my own personal feng shui, I'm a 4 kua (east person) and I am a Water Tiger.

Now, as a water tiger with a 4 kua, I'm very compatible with both my zodiac sign, element and kua number.

But if you're a kua 5 metal rat, then for example, you have very different qualities associated with your kua number and your zodiac sign and that could be at odds with each other.

This can create quite a bit of confusion for a lot of people, so you're not alone. What I find is that most people identify with an element or identity more than another. So, if you identify with the earthiness of being a 5 kua than the watery element of the rat or the metal element with your birth year, then work with your kua 5 qualities.

Here's what's important to know, though, and that is no matter what you pick, you're right! So just pick the one that feels the most right to you.

I want to turn my bed to my most auspicious direction, but that puts the door to my bedroom behind me. Is that OK?

It's tempting to try to always face our favorable directions, but it's not good feng shui to do that and not use the command position – which is where you can be in bed and see the door from your bed. This is called following good “form” feng shui. Always have your bed or desk arranged so that you are in the command position ahead of trying to tap your personal feng shui directions. This is always the better choice.

What else can you tell me about my personal kua number?

Below are some more details about your kua number, and an image that also might be helpful to understanding your personal feng shui qualities and personality.

I hope it helps you to understand your personal feng shui energies better and to find an affinity for those energies that makes sense – and good feng shui – for you.

3 Kua – The Majestic Tree.

The 3 kuas symbolize the beautiful tree. Whether you love a mighty oak, or a magnificent, ancient sequoia, tree images are potent symbols for you and represent the big wood that makes up your kua number.

As a wood element, you are most comfortable wearing black, blue, brown or green colors as they are both harmonized (green, brown) and productive (blue, black) with your wooden energies.

Use the colors of nature as your fashion choices and boost your magnetism by wearing colors of fire that can range from the palest pink to purple and burgundy as well clear, bright red.

The numbers 3 and 1 are very lucky for you. The number 1 is the number of water, so it will help you attain more income and make change in your life. The number 3 is your luckiest number after the number of the day of your birth.

Your personal growth direction is the east, so adding water and water images in this location you will help to promote your personal growth and health.

Make sure you have a beautiful tree in the east corner of your home or garden as a symbol of your strength.

Wear wooden jewelry and gems of green color such as jade, emeralds, or green and purple amethyst. Keep a water feature in your home to bring you great luck.